

Individual	Organization	Comments Regarding IP	Doc ID
Susanne Stirling	California Chamber of Commerce	Supports new countries joining TPP as long as participants comply with current international norms and obligations, including IP protection and enforcement	USTR-2012-0015-0002
Tracy Haller	Novartis Corporation	Supports Canada's participation so long as U.S. addresses Canada's Patented Medicines Regulations provisions that weaken patent protection for research-based pharmaceuticals and several other limitations under Canadian patent law	USTR-2012-0015-0006
Dr. Mark Akrigg	<none>	Criticizes TPP IP provisions as providing monopolies and undercutting democratic process of participant countries; advocates for scrapping the TPP altogether rather than adjusting its terms	USTR-2012-0015-0007
David Gaugh	Generic Pharmaceutical Association	Criticizes TPP IP provisions as inhibiting innovation by not balancing IP protection with encouraging competition	USTR-2012-0015-0009
David Nelson	General Electric	Supports Canada and Mexico's participation in TPP; advocates for IP standards consistent with US-Korea FTA	USTR-2012-0015-0031
Jessica Lemos	National Association of Manufacturers	Supports Canada and Mexico's participation in TPP so long as both implement higher standards of IP protection important to manufacturers (for instance, pharma patents in Canada and Mexico's NAFTA commitments)	USTR-2012-0015-0039
Jay Taylor	PhRMA	Expresses concern over Canada's weak patent enforcement, lack of patent term restoration, limitations on data protection and patent utility	USTR-2012-0015-0023
Burak Guvensoylar	TechAmerica	Supports balancing cross-border data/information flow with protection of IPRs	USTR-2012-0015-0042
Joseph Diamond	Biotechnology Industry Organization	Expresses concern over Canada's patentability requirements, lack of equitable right of appeal, lack of patent term restoration, and lack of data package exclusivity for drugs not marketed in Canada	USTR-2012-0015-0036
Patrick Kilbride	U.S. Chamber of Commerce	Advocates for increased IP protection under Canadian law, including enhanced protections for trade secrets	USTR-2012-0015-0020
Calman Cohen	Emergency Committee for American Trade	Supports adoption of high standards of IP protection, consistent with US-Korea FTA	USTR-2012-0015-0028
Steven Metalitz	International Intellectual Property Alliance	Advocates for increased copyright protection	USTR-2012-0015-0032
Krista Cox	Knowledge Ecology International	Advocates for better consumer protection as relates to IPR; cross-border sharing of accessible formats of copyrighted works; exportation of medical devices manufactured under a compulsory license; proposing chapters on access to knowledge and supply of public goods	USTR-2012-0015-0014
John Kelly	International Dairy Foods Association	Conflicting negotiations between the EU and Canada or Mexico on geographical indications should not undermine high standard of IP protection in TPP	USTR-2012-0014-0022

Individual	Organization	Comments Regarding IP	Doc ID
Susanne Stirling	California Chamber of Commerce	Supports new participants in TPP as long as they adhere to already established high levels of IP protection and enforcement	USTR-2012-0014-0002
Abby Browning	California Coalition for Free Trade (part of Cal Chamber of Commerce)	Supports new participants in TPP as long as they adhere to already established high levels of IP protection and enforcement	USTR-2012-0014-0005
Tracy Haller	Novartis Corporation	Advocates for strengthening Mexico's patent litigation procedures and other elements of its patent linkage practices; advocates for creation of a Medical Device and Pharmaceuticals Working Group to address industry issues as they arise in the future	USTR-2012-0014-0008
Anissa Brennan	Motion Picture Association of America	Supports Mexico as a participant provided Mexico strengthens its enforcement of IPRs and works to combat piracy	USTR-2012-0014-0047
Meredith Fensom	Biotechnology Industry Organization	Advocates for an IP chapter with effective standards for patent and data exclusivity	USTR-2012-0014-0044
Carlos Ramon Berzubza	CANIPEC (Mexican Chamber of Cosmetic Products)	Supports increased anti-piracy measures	USTR-2012-0014-0046
Eric Schwartz	International Intellectual Property Alliance	Endorses Mexico's participation in TPP negotiations; advocates for higher level of copyright protection under Mexican law	USTR-2012-0014-0032
Calman Cohen	Emergency Committee for American Trade	Supports adopting the highest possible level of IP protection	USTR-2012-0014-0033
Jay Taylor	PhRMA	Expresses frustration in removing infringing pharmaceutical copies from Mexico market and obtaining final determinations in IP disputes from Mexican courts; also urges patent term restoration	USTR-2012-0014-0024
Jessica Lemos	National Association of Manufacturers	Supports Canada and Mexico's participation in TPP so long as both implement higher standards of IP protection important to manufacturers (for instance, Mexican regulatory data protection for biologics)	USTR-2012-0014-0050
Burak Guvensoylar	TechAmerica	Supports Mexico's participation in TPP and recommends IP protection like that in US-Korea FTA	USTR-2012-0014-0026
Shawna Morris	National Milk Producers Federation & U.S. Dairy Export Council	Mexico's participation will allow for new commitments on geographical indications regulations	USTR-2012-0014-0036
John Kelly	International Dairy Foods Association	Conflicting negotiations between the EU and Canada or Mexico on geographical indications should not undermine high standard of IP protection in TPP	USTR-2012-0014-0022
Krista Cox	Knowledge Ecology International	Urges addition of language regarding limitations and exceptions to copyright protections; opposes TPP language requiring members to issue patents for diagnostic, therapeutic and surgical methods; supports patent term language that focuses on access to medicines rather than market access	USTR-2012-0014-0053
--	National Foreign Trade Council	Generally supports higher standards for intellectual property	USTR-2012-0014-0057